

Cookie Policy

1. Goal of the policy

This policy defines the concept of cookies, summarizes cookies we use on the website <https://idya.hu>, with their goals and lifetimes (how long a cookie remains on your device).

2. What are cookies?

Cookies are files, pieces of information stored on your computer (or other Internet-capable devices, e.g. a smartphone or a tablet) when you visit the website. A cookie usually contains the name of the website from which the cookie originates, as well as the lifetime and the value of the cookie, which is a unique, randomly generated number in most cases.

3. What do we use cookies for?

Using cookies, the website can be used more easily and securely, so it provides you with a better user experience. Using cookies, we may generate anonymous, summarized statistics, based on which we can better understand how the website is used. This information – from which we cannot identify you personally – help us improve the structure and content of the website. If you accept this cookie policy, this is also stored in a cookie.

4. What types of cookies do we use?

The website uses the following cookies:

Cookie name	Goal	Expiry
_ga _ga_*	Supports the operation of Google Analytics. Its goal is to distinguish users by associating random identification numbers to users until the end of the browser session. This is included in all page requests of the website, this is used to count visitors, sessions, and campaign data for website analytics.	13 months
